Re: Purchase of Proximity Devices from Texas Health Dallas

The Texas Health Presbyterian Community Medical Center closed on 8/1/2011. This was a clinic that operated as a cost center of Texas Health Dallas. This center was on an Electronic Medical Records for the past 4 years. The center currently has 8 proximity devices in the exam rooms which hold desktop computers. Each individual device was originally purchased for about $1,800. Ann Sadler mentioned that this area may be leased to another medical practice and they could use these devices. This would also assist the county with the need for wall repairs when the items are removed. The hospital would be willing to sale these devices for $4504. This is the same amount we pay each month for rent. We would need to know if you are in agreement with this proposal before the end of October. Please contact me if you have any questions.
