Re: Collin County Historical Marker

Public Works received a request from the Collin County Historical Commission to place a historical marker in Collin County.

The plaque recognizes the establishment of the Seven Points College in the late 19th century. Situated in present day Westminster, the school was known by various names while serving as a preparatory school and college. Financial difficulties forced the school to close in 1918.

The Historical Commission furnished the marker and mounting accessories which will require only nominal expense to install. As such, Public Works requests Commissioners' Court approval to facilitate this request.
