Section 6: Project Narrative

1. Project Description

The Trinity Trail at Lavon Lake is a public, free, 26+ mile trail for hiking and equestrian use. It is recognized in the Collin County Regional Trails Master Plan (May 2012) as a Regional Spine Corridor trail. This project addresses the cumulative wear on specific trail segments after 25 years of use and the growth of communities and utilities adjacent to the trail. Implementation of the objectives will restore the trailbed's surface for continued access by the public and reduce or mitigate specific safety concerns on the trail. The six items that comprise this project are:

1. Pipeline Drainage – When NTMWD installed their latest pipeline along the southern portion of the trail, three natural water drainages were disrupted – the resulting drainage across the pipeline (and the trail) allows water to pool across the trail, causing an unsafe trailbed. We propose to re-establish the natural drainage flow across the pipeline and trail, and install culverts for the trail that allow a dry crossing of the drainage path.
2. Trailbed renovation – Over the course of 25 years of use and maintenance of the trail's southern half, numerous sites on the trail are now sunken below the natural terrain. We propose to re-work the trailbed surface to restore the natural height of the trail and re-establish the natural watershed to prevent downhill water erosion of the trail.
3. Trailbed drainage – A segment of the northern half of the trail, due east of the NTMWD sewage treatment plant is across very flat terrain. The flatness of the surrounding terrain makes it difficult for natural and man-made water flows to pass by the trail, leaving the trail extremely muddy and unsafe to use. We propose to re-work the trailbed and surrounding terrain to establish a proper drainage that will not impact the trail's use.
4. Seis Lagos stormwater – Runoff from the Seis Lagos and surrounding communities has increased the water flow through one particular stream to the point where 5 foot culverts are not enough to handle a severe storm. We propose to install a properly sized culvert at the stream crossing and install erosion-prevention components to forestall future stream bank erosion at the crossing.
5. Raptor Center corridor – The Trinity Trail has a defined corridor through the Blackland Prairie Raptor Center property. There is one point in the corridor that has been identified as not sufficiently wide enough for the Lucas VFD all-terrain emergency vehicle to negotiate. We propose to reset the corridor posts and cabling at this chokepoint to allow their vehicle enough room to negotiate it with ease.
6. White Rock Creek hiker crossing – Currently, the trail crossing at White Rock Creek is a low-water crossing, which is suitable for horses, but not for hikers or runners when the Creek is flowing with more than 6 inches of depth or 6 feet of width. We propose to install stepping stones (or the equivalent) in
