Commissioner Webb pulled this item to ask if it was moving forward. Caren Skipworth, IT, explained this has been extended due to issues with the vendor that was awarded the grant. The vendor lost a key staff member and was not able to finish the deliverables on time. The deliverables are requirements for all six counties participating in the grant and will be wrapped up by August 31, 2016. With no further discussion, a motion was made to approve the item. 4. AI-42000 Sale of property located in the D J Jaynes Survey, Farmersville, Texas (.0087 acres of land out of Abstract 471, Block 2, Tract 51) as described at the Appraisal District in Geographic ID Number R647100205101 to Kashif Riaz upon the payment of $100, County Judge.

Commissioner Hill pulled this item for the following reasons: 1) it appears to be attached to the property immediately north of it, and the Commissioner is unsure if that property owner is aware of the sale; 2) the property is landlocked and has no access to roadways; and 3) the property is very close to US-380 which may be expanded requiring the County to buy back the property. Commissioner Hill spoke with the Farmersville City Manager who has no issues with the County refusing the offer to purchase the property for $100. Commissioner Webb agreed and wanted to make sure the property owners to the north were aware of the situation. Commissioner Hill said the City of Farmersville will follow up with the property owner to the north. No motion was made to sell the property. (Time: 2:02 p.m.)

NO ACTION TAKEN

5. AI-41987 Declare the attached list of Collin County property as surplus and authorize the Purchasing Agent to sell via on-line auction per V.T.C.A. Local Government Code 263 and authorize advertising for same, Purchasing.

Commissioner Webb pulled this item because there were several Panasonic Toughbooks on the list and the Commissioner wanted to know if that was part of the normal refresh. Caren Skipworth, IT, said they are part of the five-year refresh for the Sheriff's Office. Also there were two 2015 Ford Police Interceptors on the list. Judge Self said these are based on Jon Kleinheksel's (Public Works) algorithm for replacement.

In the future, Judge Self would like IT to sign off on these lists. Michalyn Rains, Purchasing, said nothing is surplus without approval from IT. With no further comments, a motion was made to approve the item. (Time: 2:05 p.m.)

5. AI-41986 Road Materials, Emulsified Asphalt (IFB No. 2016-127), Public Works.

Judge Self asked that this item be put back on the agenda so the Court could determine the best possible solution. Commissioner Webb changed his mind and would like to go back to his original position which is to reject the bid and rebid. Commissioner Fletcher agreed saying the Court needs to do what is right for the taxpayers and that is getting the best price. With no further discussion, a motion was made to reject IFB No. 2016-127 and to approve the specs and authorize the advertisement of Bid No. 2016-296. (Time: 2:08 p.m.)

COURT ORDER NO. 2016-602-08-15

6. AI-41875 Results of compensation program analysis conducted by Korn Ferry Hay Group, Human Resources.

Paul Glogowski, Korn Ferry Hay Group, came forward with a PowerPoint presentation showing the results of the County's Compensation Program analysis. Mr. Glogowski reviewed the project objectives. Based on their analysis and knowledge of market practices, Collin County does not practice anything in conflict with standard compensation practices, particularly relative to other public sector organizations. Any difficulty Collin County currently experiences in attracting and retaining employees cannot be directly attributed to the approaches and practices of the compensation and benefits framework.

When compared to the private sector, the County is not as well aligned. While there are no annual incentive programs or bonus plans in the public sector, over 70% of the private sector has annual incentive/bonus plans. Regarding wage compression, the private sector has greater flexibility in implementing various pay delivery practices.

The County uses a market-based compensation system and utilizes separate base pay structures for different employee groups allowing it to tailor compensation structures to accommodate differences in the market. In order to maintain market competitiveness, the County utilizes an annual process of analyzing market data to assess the need for base salary structure modifications. Regarding promotions, Mr. Glogowski suggested the Court consider modifying its policy to reflect different "sizes" of promotions (one grade vs two grades). Overall, the structures the County uses to administer base salary are in line with market best practices.

The County's PFP (Pay for Performance) Program is a reasonable process for differentiating pay based on performance. Participants can currently receive a maximum increase of 150% of target. Mr. Glogowski suggests the Court consider increasing the maximum to 200% of target especially for the high performers. There was a brief conversation regarding forced distribution which forces managers who rank all employees equally to distinguish between high and low performers. When determining the PFP budget, Mr. Glogowski recommends not focusing on CPI (cost of living) increases because this is the leading cause of wage compression. Instead the County should consider using analysis of aggregate actual pay versus aggregate pay targets or midpoints.

Collin County's market benchmarking practices are, in aggregate, aligned with best practice. The County matches jobs to market data using its understanding of the job and not by title alone. The County leverages multiple data sets including a custom survey of the public sector market as well as broader data sets from published surveys. Data is gathered using averages, and it was recommended to use the 50th percentile or median when available. The most recent custom survey gathered data from 14 cities and counties. Mr. Glogowski recommended targeting a minimum of 20 total participants and suggested adding the Cities of Carrollton, Garland, Richardson and Denton as well as the Counties of Grayson, Cameron, Nueces, Brazoria, Bell, Galveston and Lubbock. The Court questioned the use of data from some of these counties. Mr. Glogowski suggested filtering the cities and counties to use only the ones that the County might want to get people from or is afraid of losing people to.

Wage compression is an administrative challenge and not limited to public sector organizations. Solutions typically involve significant and periodic investment in addition to normal annual compensation budgets. Mr. Glogowski presented two concepts for possible solutions to wage compression. The first is to conduct an equity analysis every five years to identify employees misaligned to the midpoint of their job giving consideration to their tenure in that job/grade. The second concept is to consider modifying the PFP increase calculation to include a position in range concept. This approach is used annually and can slowly alleviate compression issues.

The next issue was hot jobs which are jobs characterized by a combination of difficulty in finding candidates with a certain skill set as well as retaining employees with a certain skill set. Currently, the County does not have a formal process or structure to accommodate hot jobs. Mr. Glogowski recommended a process for identifying hot jobs which could include a stipend.

Bonus programs are useful tools to drive clear performance goals. Spot bonus programs provide employees clear linkages to what the organization values by providing rewards within a very short timeframe from the action being rewarded. Mr. Glogowski recommended the County continue its spot bonus program, GEM (Going the Extra Mile) awards, and consider a minimum monetary payout of $250 in order to provide an impactful message.

Regarding benefits, Collin County is competitive with the public sector on medical coverage, dental coverage, vision, retirement plan employer contribution and vacation time. No change in benefits was recommended. Finally, Mr. Glogowski presented a timeline to change, gain final approval, communicate and implement the recommended changes to the County's Compensation Program. (Time: 3:44 p.m.)

7. AI-33858 RTC monthly update, Commissioner, Precinct 4.

Commissioner Webb updated the Court on the last RTC (Regional Transportation Commission) meeting. They did approve the 25% Disadvantaged Business Enterprise Participation Goal for FY2017-FY2019 for U.S. Department of Transportation contracting opportunities.

Next there was a push to get more elected officials to attend and support the region's police and first responders. There was a request for RTC funding to provide transit services for the elected officials to The BigX events. Plano Mayor Pro Tem, Lissa Smith, believes she can raise all the money which means the RTC's funding would be a backstop.

The resolution to the Texas Transportation Commission regarding funding levels was tabled again. There were some pointed questions sent to TxDOT (Texas Department of Transportation) regarding equitably dividing Proposition 5 money.

A letter to Senator Nichols thanking him for his efforts on protecting transportation tools and other transportation funding efforts was approved.

There was a lengthy discussion regarding the marketing efforts for the DFW Connector Pilot Program to increase toll tag usage. Both toll tags and ZipCash are used on these managed lanes. The collection rates are significantly higher for toll tags than ZipCash, and incentives for using toll tags were discussed. One idea was increasing the cost of using ZipCash by almost 90%. The most controversial idea was the concept of preloading a toll tag with $20 as a credit to get more people to use it.

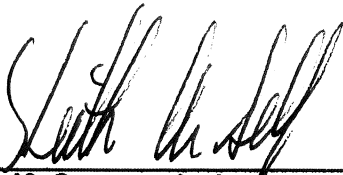

Lastly, there was an information item on the Regional 10-Year Plan, but there was nothing on the plan for Collin County. This will become an action item by the end of the year, and the Commissioner would like something on the map for Collin County. Judge Self said he and Commissioner Webb had attended a meeting with Michael Morris, NCTCOG, (North Central Texas Council of Governments) and TxDOT a few months ago and reviewed Collin County's list. Mr. Morris had made very positive statements but the Judge is concerned that there is still nothing on the 10-year plan. Commissioner Webb said the corridor studies are moving forward rapidly, and he will remind Mr. Morris of the discussions.

NO ACTION TAKEN

8. Possible future agenda items by Commissioners Court without discussion.

EXECUTIVE SESSION
