This City of Frisco agrees to be the applicant/fiscal agent of the FY 2013 Victims of Crime Act (VOCA) Grant Program.

II. Mission

Within the criminal justice system, there is quite possibly no role of greater importance to a victim or other witness of violent crime than that of law enforcement. Within law enforcement, there is quite possibly no role of greater importance to a victim or other witness of violent crime than that of the Victim Advocate. The mission of the Victim Assistance Outreach Program is to provide Victims and Witnesses of crime a continuum of timely support and service to heal from the trauma they suffer. The Victim Assistance Outreach Program is committed to fair, compassionate, and dignified treatment of all crime victims and witnesses and to the development, implementation and perpetuation of victim/witness assistance programs and services that preserve privacy, ensure rights, enhance physical and psychological well being, reduce trauma, facilitate healing and encourage participation in the criminal justice process.

Goals of the Victim Assistance Program

IV. Procedures

A. Concept

The Crime Victim Advocate will be an additional resource and respond to the needs of victims of violent crimes above and beyond what the responding officers and criminal investigators are currently able to provide. A higher level of support available during the critical hours and days immediately after the violent act(s) in which victims are experiencing confusion and remorse and are apt to make uninformed or misguided choices like recanting of events or dropping of charges.

It is in Law Enforcement's own best interests, to play a significant role in victim assistance, a role that no other component of the criminal justice system can effectively duplicate e.g., victim assistance activities of prosecutors' offices usually affect only witnesses of cases that have been accepted for prosecution. Establishing a victim services program within a law enforcement agency makes sense for several reasons, advocates say. If victims receive support from victim services counselors, they may be more likely to report a crime or cooperate in an investigation. That support is an added tool for law enforcement agencies to increase their conviction rates and ultimately reduce the recidivism rate. Victim services work complements community policing, which emphasizes relationship with members of a neighborhood. Having a victim services counselor on the scene can free up officer time; the counselor can talk with a victim while the officer goes back into service. Also, the counselor can act as a liaison for a child if a parent is being arrested and officers need to move to the next call. A law enforcement agency is also a natural entry point for victims to see advocates/counselors after they have been victimized.
