

The primary purpose of this position is to perform thorough and continuous review of complex and varied foreign and domestic intelligence information and other threat related information. The Research Analyst conducts analysis and creates assessments of complex threat related information, both foreign and domestic. The Research Analyst will perform the following duties:

- The Intelligence Analyst will conduct ongoing threat environment reviews as it relates to the North Central Texas Region.
- Serves as a key member of the North Central Texas Fusion Center staff providing thorough analysis and assessments of the significance and credibility of received threats.
- The Intelligence Analyst works closely with the North Central Texas Fusion Center Senior Intelligence Analyst and works closely with State, Local, and Tribal Government, in support of law enforcement investigations. Law enforcement intelligence information is collected then analyzed from a variety of sources including investigations, seized documents, surveillance reports, cooperating sources, and various other sources.
- The Intelligence Analyst conducts and manages complex research projects in such areas as drug cultivation and production, methods of transportation, trafficking routes, and the structure and analysis of trafficker organizations.
- Information developed by Intelligence Research Specialists as well as Intelligence Operations Specialist is presented to law enforcement case agents, supervisory personnel, U.S. Attorneys, grand juries, and high-level decision makers.
- Consumers of North Central Texas Fusion Center intelligence include the judicial system, Federal, state, local agencies, as well as other intelligence agencies.
- Prepares a variety of analytical reports, memoranda, and written materials on public policy issues within the employee's area of professional knowledge to support congressional decision-making.
- Prepares a variety of descriptive and background reports, memoranda, and written materials on subjects or public policy issues within the employee's area of professional knowledge.
- Participates in planning, organizing, and coordinating group research efforts.
- Participates in seminars, workshops, and/or outreach programs.
- Intelligence Analysts analyze threat information from multiple sources, disciplines, and agencies across the Intelligence Community
- Intelligence Analysts conduct studies to identify threats and threat trends.
- The main function of Intelligence Analyst is to put large amounts of intelligence information into context in order to draw insights about the possible implications.

- Works with state and local government partners to create an information-sharing environment that serves stakeholders' information needs and builds interoperability horizontally and vertically
- Produces intelligence products fusing state and local information with amplifying information from the national intelligence community

Working Conditions and Other Considerations: Employment is contingent upon satisfactory completion and maintenance of a background investigation and the granting of a secret clearance.

QUALIFICATIONS REQUIRED:

Your education and experience will be evaluated against all qualification requirements (basic and any additional requirements) listed below:

Basic Requirements:

Applicants must have one year of specialized experience. Specialized experience is experience that equipped the applicant with the knowledge, skills, and abilities to perform successfully the duties of the position, and that is in or related to the work of the position to be filled. For this position, specialized experience is experience analyzing intelligence reports and information related to law enforcement, critical infrastructure, emergency management, or public health.

Knowledge of intelligence and national security

Ability to analyze public policy issues

Ability to design and utilize research and analytical methods and techniques

Ability to write in a public policy context

Ability to convey analysis and information orally through briefings, consultations and other presentations

Ability to work collaboratively with others

Ability to build and maintain a professional network

Ability to exercise objectivity in all phases of analysis and consultation

Ability to communicate orally

Ability to work effectively in a high pressure environment

Ability to exercise judgment and discretion

Ability to lead people and tasks effectively

Ability to conduct complex intelligence analysis, coordination and interaction across a broad range of interagency activities.

Ability to communicate in environments requiring a high degree of negotiation to allow the successful coordination of intelligence analysis initiatives.

NOTE: We recommend that your resume clearly show your possession of the specialized experience qualification requirement.

Education:

A Bachelor's degree or equivalent degree in homeland security, bioterrorism, international relations, global intelligence studies, criminal justice, military science or political science which provided knowledge of the operations and resources of the organizations that make up the intelligence community may be substituted for the specialized experience requirement.

NOTE: Equivalent combinations of education and experience are qualifying. Education and specialized experience can be combined if less than the required amount.

NOTE: If qualifying based on your education, you must submit a copy of your college transcript OR a list of college courses with credit hours, dates completed, and grades received to verify education.

Education must be accredited by an accrediting institution recognized by the U.S. Department of Education in order for it to be credited towards qualifications (particularly positions with a positive education requirement.) Therefore, applicants must report only attendance and degrees from schools accredited by accrediting institutions recognized by the U.S. Department of Education. Applicants can verify accreditation at the following website: <http://www.ed.gov/admins/finaid/accred/index.html> All education claimed by the selected applicant will be verified before an appointment is made to this position.

Education completed in foreign colleges or universities may be used to meet the above requirements if you can show that the foreign education is comparable to that received in an accredited educational institution in the United States. It is your responsibility to provide such evidence when applying.