Re: January 2026 Tariff Impacts on TK Elevator Manufacturing, Inc.'s Products

Valued Customer,

Please accept this as a follow up on our recent letter to you regarding how the cost of your order from TK Elevator Manufacturing, Inc. ("TKEM") will be affected by the ever-changing global trade policy landscape through the imposition of tariffs since TKEM's products include materials and components produced by a variety of suppliers worldwide. We understand that you've been asked how those policy changes are impacting TKEM's orders. The purpose of this letter is to provide you with additional detail to address those questions.

To start, what follows is a table listing those tariffs currently in place for components sourced abroad by country of origin :

Table 1: Tariff History

Country	Tariff	Commodity	Implementation date 2025	Current Impact to TKE
Canada 	50%	% of Steel and Aluminum content	June 4 th	Yes
	35%	Reciprocal	August 1 st	Yes
Mexico 	50%	% of Steel and Aluminum content	June 4 th	Yes
	25%	Reciprocal	August 1 st	Yes
China 	30%	Blanket	March 4 th	Yes
	50%	% of Steel and Aluminum content	June 4 th	Yes
	10%	Reciprocal	May 12 th	Yes
EU 	50%	% of Steel and Aluminum content	June 4 th	Yes
	15%	Reciprocal	August 1 st	Yes
Switzerland 	15%	Reciprocal	November 14 th	Yes
LA	50%	% of Steel and Aluminum content	June 4 th	Yes
	50%	Reciprocal	August 1 st	Yes
AP	20%	Reciprocal	August 1 st	Yes
	50%	% of Steel and Aluminum content	June 4 th	No

Each of those tariffs affects the cost of sourcing specific vertical transportation electrical and mechanical components from those places of origin. The following table contains a generalized list of the places of origin of those key mechanical and electrical components procured by TKEM by elevator system type which includes applicable tariff rates that have been blended over time to reflect the mix of global components (mechanical, electrical, and raw materials) used across TKEM's product lines. Blending is necessary because (a) components are sourced from multiple countries and change frequently as TKEM balances quality, cost, and availability and (b) their respective tariff rates fluctuate as trade policies change. For these reasons, tracking and isolating the exact tariff amount paid on every individual component for each and every project is not practicable or reliable.

Table 2: Tariff Impact on Mechanical & Electrical Components

		EVO, Hydro, and Engineered Cars
Country		Electrical	Mechanical
	US (local tariff)	0.8%	0.5%

What follows next is a list demonstrating the application of the tariff rates by TKEM product. As you review that list, please keep in mind that these tariffs are paid by TKEM on certain material incorporated into the product you purchased immediately at the time of import to ensure timely delivery of your equipment.

Finally, in the attached examples we've included samples from one order showing the invoice that includes tariffs paid, the bill of lading (i.e. the receipt acknowledgment) and an entry summary form that details the product, its corresponding value and the tariffs paid. Upon request, we can provide the entry summary forms and duty payment receipts for specific components.

While TKEM does secure a significant percentage of its components from within the United States, on occasion we've found that the best combination of quality, supply/delivery and cost is produced by foreign sources which, in turn, allows TKEM's products to remain best in class. Please keep in mind though that the tables above capture only those tariffs paid directly by TKEM and do not address the additional price increases we're experiencing from our domestic suppliers that are purchasing raw materials from overseas and paying their own tariffs at the time of import. Rest assured, we remain committed to constantly revisiting our catalog of suppliers to mitigate these effects while delivering the quality that the market has come to expect.

Regards,

TK Elevator Manufacturing, Inc.
