

A resolution of the Collin County Commissioners Court: Secure Texas Grid, Water, Energy, Agriculture, & Property Sovereignty

- Electric Grid Protection: Protect the Texas grid from large-scale EMP (electromagnetic pulse) and foreign-adversary cyber threats by removing vulnerable control equipment; pause uneconomical 765 kV transmission projects; ensure fair electricity rates for families and small businesses; and recapture federal incentives to preserve grid independence through conventional generation.
 - Water Security: Ban large-scale export or sale of groundwater and surface water to any single private entity; prohibit data centers and new large industrial users from consuming fresh groundwater and surface water by mandating nonpotable water such as oil and gas wastewater; ban fluoridation of public water supplies; and expedite permitting, funding, and construction of desalination, wastewater reuse, produced water treatment, reservoirs, and conveyance infrastructure while protecting rivers and streams.
 - Texas Is Not for Sale: Expand prohibitions on foreign and adversary ownership or control of all critical infrastructure and adjacent land; require full beneficial-ownership disclosure to prevent shell company evasion; and strengthen oversight of local authorities through Texas Local Government Code Chapter 391 Regional Planning Commissions and related tools.
 - Eminent Domain and Property Rights: Require proof of immediate public necessity for all eminent domain actions with transparent hearings and prohibit the use of eminent domain for speculative private projects or by non-elected entities. If any revenue is generated on private property involuntarily taken, then that revenue shall be returned proportionally to the affected landowners.
 - End Civil Asset Forfeiture: Abolish civil asset forfeiture entirely; ensure private property can only be forfeited following a criminal conviction that is upheld on appeal.
 - Protect Texas Agriculture: Prohibit foreign governments, adversaries, and their proxies from owning or controlling Texas farmland, farms, and ranches; promote strong biosecurity measures and rapid-response eradication of harmful parasites such as the invasive New World Screwworm, while fully respecting farmers' and ranchers' rights and minimizing regulatory burdens.

We hereby support these initiatives and encourage the Texas Legislature to adopt these objectives in the 90th legislature.
